Questions 11-15 refer to the following letter.

Dear Professor Milton:

On behalf of the North American Society for Computers and Learning in Secondary Education, we would like to recognize and thank you for your valuable assistance with our recent annual conference, held in Boston, in May of this year.

We very much appreciate that you gave freely of your time to assemble and organize the panel on Demystifying the Major Search Engines. You may be interested to know that the overall conference survey results were very positive, particularly with regard to the panel discussion itself. We recognize that the contribution of that panel was a key event at the conference and will figure prominently into the summary of proceedings which we will publish next month.

For your information, I have attached a few of the comments we received about your panel from the survey of conference participants.

We trust that you enjoyed your time at the conference and we certainly look forward to your participation in next year's event.

Sincerely,

Bradley Madison
Conference Coordinator

Questions 6 - 10 refer to the following notice.

Dolphins are regarded as the friendliest creatures in the sea and stories of them helping drowning sailors have been common since Roman times. The more we learn about dolphins, the more we realize that their society is more complex than people previously imagined. They look after other dolphins when they are ill, care for pregnant mothers and protect the weakest in the community, as we do. Some scientists have suggested that dolphins have a language but it is much more probable that they communicate with each other without needing words. Could any of these mammals be more intelligent than man? Certainly the most common argument in favor of man's superiority over them that we can kill them more easily than they can kill us is the least satisfactory. On the contrary, the more we discover about these remarkable creatures, the less we appear superior when we destroy them.

1. What have the scientists suggested about the dolphins?
 1. They are friendlier than other creatures.
 2. They are very intelligent but weak.
 3. They are remarkable creatures.
 4. They have their language.

2. According to the passage, which is NOT true about the dolphins?
 1. They helped human-beings from drowning.
 2. They take care of pregnant dolphin mothers.
 3. They protect their weakest members in their communities.

 4. They communicate with each other by wording.

3. What is the closest meaning of the word "suggested" (line 5)?
 1. advised
 2. succeeded
 3. digested
 4. harvested

4. What does "They" (line 3) refer to?
 1. Roman times
 2. dolphins
 3. people
 4. creatures

5. What can be inferred from this sentence “Could any of these mammals be more intelligent than man?”

1. The writer thinks that the dolphins are smarter than the man.
2. The writer doesn't think that the dolphins are better than the man.
3. The writer thinks that the man is the most intelligent creatures.
4. The writer doesn't think that the man shouldn't kill the dolphins.

Black culture had a real influence on dance and other art forms in the 20th century. After the American civil war a surge of people from the Caribbean and Deep South migrated into North American cities. In New York, the district of Harlem became home to black people from different cultural traditions with their own dances and music.

Harlem became the ‘in place’ to be amongst both black and white New Yorkers – its clubs brought together dance and music that was alive and exciting. Dances such as the Charleston, Lindy hop and Jitterbug sprang from these clubs as did Jazz music.
